"We were excited about creating a new hub and a community in that area (near the Evergreen Line)," she said. "That was the launching point for us; to explore what this area could be."

The newly completed Bosa Properties' Uptown project in West Coquitlam features two towers connected by a podium located a half block from the future Burquitlam Station on SkyTrain's Evergreen Line. This high-density mixed-use project is anchored at the base by the major grocery store chain Safeway, along with other retail store fronts. The development is helping to create a new up-and-coming community in the area.

Uptown is located on the rise at Clarke Road and Como Lake, half a block from Evergreen Line's Burquitlam Station. Many of the 438 homes, a mix of 1, 2 and 3 bedroom units, will enjoy expansive views. Each home is designed to increase the flexibility of the space available with open spaces and efficient storage.

A 2,315 sq.ft. wellness pavilion featuring a fitness room, yoga studio, infrared sauna and steamroom is located on an extensive landscaped amenity podium. Additional amenity is provided in the form of private lounges for resident's use.
